

Internal Auditor Lead - Compassion International

Join the cause of Compassion: releasing children from poverty in Jesus' name. As the world's largest Christian child development organization, we steward the resources entrusted to us with utmost seriousness. Compassion commits to the highest professional and biblical principles in all aspects of our ministry and maintains the highest industry standards for our allocation of funds.

A key element of Compassion International's Risk Management program is Internal Audit. The Internal Auditor Lead will facilitate organizational accountability and integrity by planning, implementing and applying audit processes and strategies. This includes travel for audits in the international environments where we work. These audits are conducted in a variety of business and cultural climates, working with customers who have varying levels of English proficiency.

We are looking for an Internal Auditor Lead that can serve as a consultative partner within our ministry by bringing to the table the right mix of technical audit, business, communication, and relational skills.

Make a difference for children living in abject poverty around the globe. We need people like you who want to live out their calling through their career skills. We believe that your calling is God given. It's who you are wherever you are. It is the sum total of your competencies, your character, and your compatibility to work with others.

Put your calling to work; apply now and become poverty's worst enemy. Please visit
